

Informational Text Structures! Bingo

myfreebingocards.com

Safety First!

Before you print all your bingo cards, please print a test page to check they come out the right size and color. Your bingo cards start on Page 3 of this PDF.

If your bingo cards have words then please check the spelling carefully.

If you need to make any changes go to mfbc.us/e/c3atqh4

Play

Once you've checked they are printing correctly, print off your bingo cards and start playing! On the next page you will find the "Bingo Caller's Card" - this is used to call the bingo and keep track of which words have been called. Your bingo cards start on Page 3.

Virtual Bingo

Please do not try to split this PDF into individual bingo cards to send out to players. We have tools on our site to send out links to individual bingo cards. For help go to myfreebingocards.com/virtual-bingo.

Help

If you're having trouble printing your bingo cards or using the bingo card generator then please go to <https://myfreebingocards.com/fag> where you will find solutions to most common problems.

Share

Pin these bingo cards on Pinterest, share on Facebook, or post this link: mfbc.us/s/c3atqh4

Edit and Create

To add more words or make changes to this set of bingo cards go to mfbc.us/e/c3atqh4

Go to myfreebingocards.com/bingo-card-generator to create a new set of bingo cards.

Legal

The terms of use for these printable bingo cards can be found at myfreebingocards.com/terms.

Have Fun!

If you have any feedback or suggestions, drop us an email on hello@myfreebingocards.com.

Bingo Caller's Card

Use your Bingo Caller's Card to call the bingo and keep track of which words you have already called.

Print two copies of the caller's card. Cut one copy up, fold the squares in half, and put them in a hat. To call the bingo, pull a square out of the hat, unfold it and read it out.

When you have called a word/number, tick it off on the second copy of the caller's card. You can use the second copy of the caller's card to check if a player has a winning card during a game.

the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.
a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.
a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book

Informational Text Structures!

Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables
an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.
A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.

Informational Text Structures!

nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.
a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.
a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely

Informational Text Structures!

the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book
a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.
nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.

Informational Text Structures!

diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.
A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.
a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.

Informational Text Structures!

diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about
Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book

Informational Text Structures!

diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.
a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.
the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book

Informational Text Structures!

a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.
an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.
an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables

Informational Text Structures!

an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables
a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely

Informational Text Structures!

a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.
A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.
an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.

Informational Text Structures!

Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.
a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book

Informational Text Structures!

Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.
the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.
diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book

Informational Text Structures!

the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.
Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.
an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book

Informational Text Structures!

a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word
nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.
the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.

Informational Text Structures!

a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.
the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.

Informational Text Structures!

a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables
Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.

Informational Text Structures!

A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.
a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.

Informational Text Structures!

the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.
a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.
a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.

Informational Text Structures!

Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.
diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word

Informational Text Structures!

an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.
a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.
a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.

Informational Text Structures!

a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.
A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely
diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.

Informational Text Structures!

the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables
A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.
a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.

Informational Text Structures!

an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.
a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely
A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.

Informational Text Structures!

an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book
a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.

Informational Text Structures!

a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.
the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.
a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.

Informational Text Structures!

nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.
a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.

Informational Text Structures!

A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word
a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book
an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.

Informational Text Structures!

diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.
A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.
an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.

Informational Text Structures!

an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely
a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.	a word of interest or significance. Often printed in a way to draw attention to the word

Informational Text Structures!

an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.	Charts are tables, diagrams or pictures that organize large amounts of data clearly and concisely	A diagrammatic (like a picture!) representation of an area of land or sea showing physical features, cities, roads, etc.
a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about a graphic representation of the passage of time as a line.	an alphabetical list of terms in a particular domain of knowledge with the definitions for those terms. Traditionally, a glossary appears at the end of a book	a title or brief explanation added to an article, illustration, cartoon, or poster.

Informational Text Structures!

a simplified drawing showing the appearance, structure, or workings of something; a schematic representation.	A word, phrase, or sentence at the beginning of a written passage that explains what the text is about	a little box of information found at the bottom of a map. It contains an explanation of what the different lines and symbols on the map mean, as well as a scale for you to work out distance.
a list of the chapters or sections given at the front of a book or periodical.	the name of a book, composition, or other artistic work.	an alphabetical list of names, subjects, etc., with references to the places where they occur, typically found at the end of a book.
a heavy dot for marking paragraphs or otherwise calling attention to or itemizing particular sections of text, especially in display advertising.	diagram (such as a series of one or more points, lines, line segments, curves, or areas) that represents the variation of a variable in comparison with that of one or more other variables	nonfiction writing, written with the intention of informing the reader about a specific topic.